

Standards of Quality

for Family Strengthening & Support

What does it mean to be a quality Family Strengthening and Support program?

What common language can we use for working effectively with families?

How can programs use the Standards to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion?

OVERVIEW

The nationally-adopted Standards of Quality for Family Strengthening & Support are designed to be used by all Family Strengthening and Support stakeholders - public departments, foundations, community-based organizations, and families - as a tool for planning, providing, and assessing quality services. The vision is that their implementation will help ensure that families are supported and strengthened through quality practice.

The Standards create common language and expectations in the Family Support and Strengthening field across different kinds of programs, such as Family Resource Centers, home visiting programs, and child development programs.

The Standards of Quality for Family Strengthening & Support establish how two key frameworks in the Family Strengthening and Support field, the Principles of Family Support Practice developed by Family Support America and the Strengthening Families Framework and Approach developed by the Center for the Study of Social Policy, can be applied together programmatically. The Standards demonstrate and measure how to work with families with a family-centered, strengths-based, multigenerational approach to support them to build research-based, evidence-informed protective factors that increase family stability, enhance child development, and reduce child abuse and neglect.

The Standards, which originated in 2012, were thoroughly revised and revised in 2020 by the National Family Support Network Member Networks across the United States, parent leaders, representatives of the Family Strengthening and Support organizations in Canada. They reflect an enhanced focus on diversity, equity, and inclusion and addressing community conditions that impact families' healthy development.

TRAINING

Training is a fundamental strategy for implementing the Standards effectively. The Standards Certification Training, developed by the National Family Support Network (NFSN), is provided by Member Networks in their geographic areas. The Certification Training is designed for all management and direct service staff, as well as for funders. Each participant who successfully completes the training receives a certificate from the NFSN that is valid for two years. To see if the Certification Training is offered in your area, please visit: www.nationalfamilysupportnetwork.org/certification-trainings.

The NFSN also provides virtual and in-person Certification Trainings. The cost is $7,500 for NFSN Member Networks and $8,000 for non-Members for up to 36 participants, which includes all materials.

To explore bringing the Certification Training to your area, please contact Andrew Russo, NFSN Co-Founder and Director, at andrew@nationalfamilysupportnetwork.org.
