Our Time Together

Considerations

What is the reason for the outreach and collaboration effort?

Who specifically do you hope to engage with?

What do you hope the outcome will be?

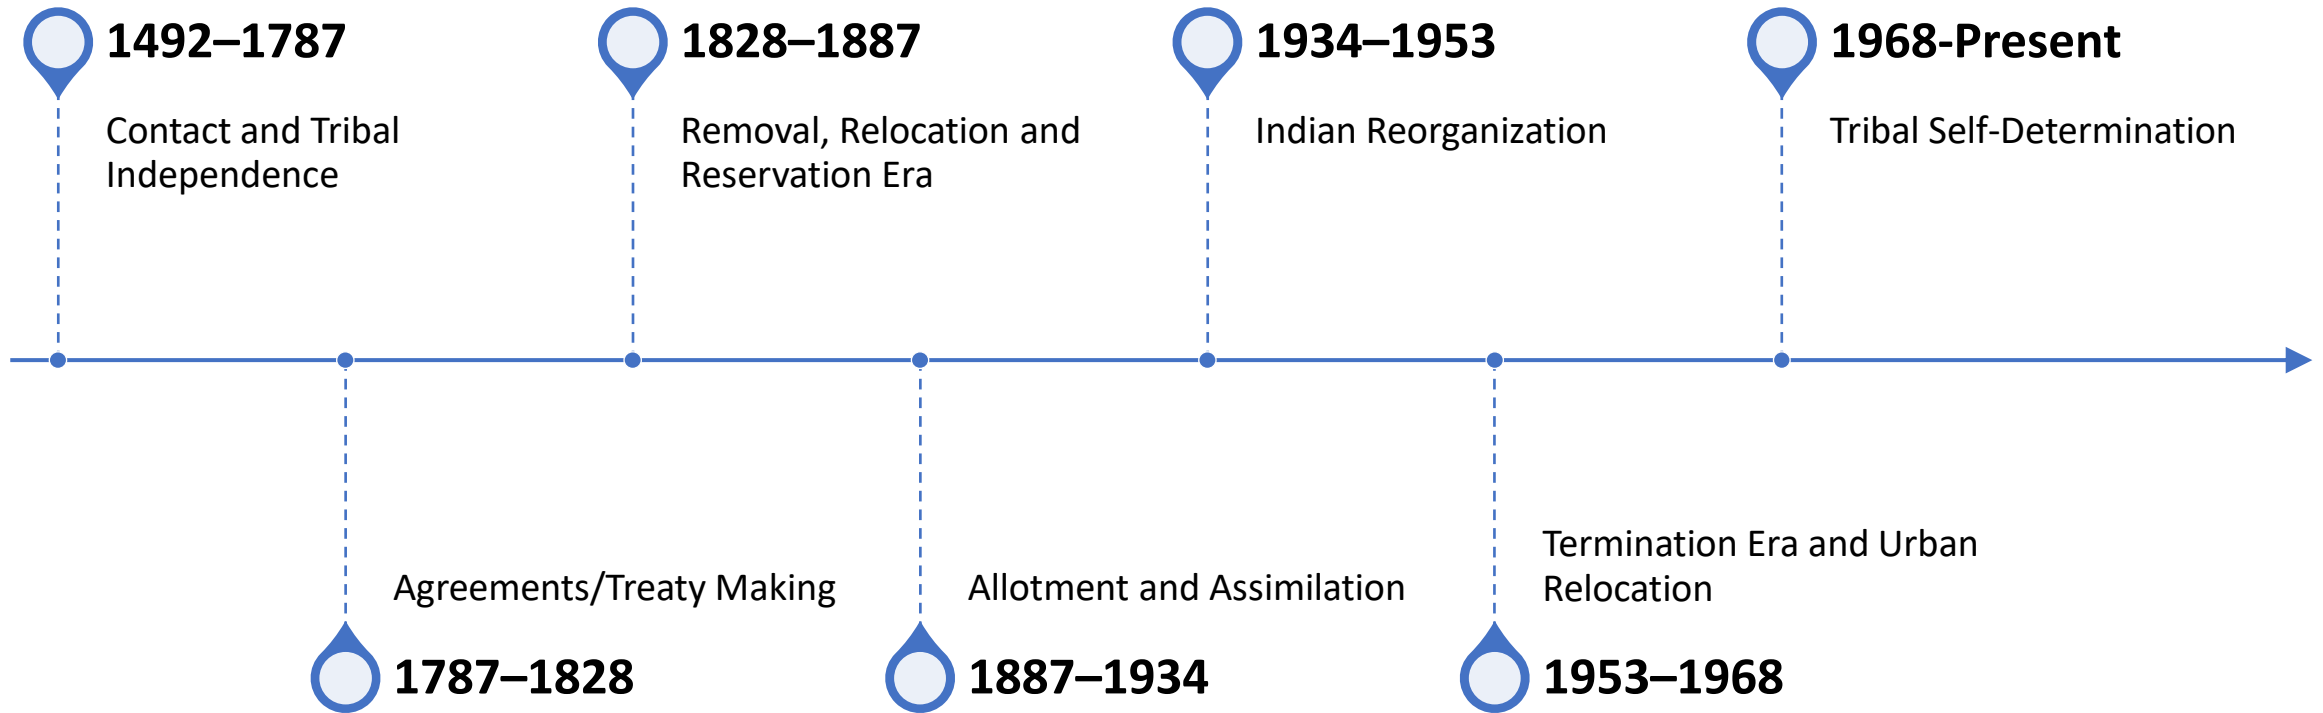

A photograph of a bison standing in a field of tall, dry grass and small yellow flowers. The bison is facing right, looking slightly towards the camera. The background is a soft-focus green field. Overlaid on the top left of the image is a quote in white text.

“The cumulative psychological wounding across generations, including the lifespan, which emanates from massive group trauma.”

- Maria Yellow Horse Brave Heart

Federal Indian Policy

Removal

"A great general has said that the only good Indian is a dead one. In a sense, I agree with the sentiment, but only in this: that all the Indian there is in the race should be dead. Kill the Indian in him, and save the man."

General Richard Henry Pratt
Carlisle Indian Industrial School
Carlisle, Pennsylvania

(Historical) Trauma-Informed Care

SAMHSA's Four R's

Realizes the widespread impact of (historical) trauma and understands potential paths for recovery;

Recognizes the signs and symptoms of (historical) trauma in clients, families, staff, and others involved with the system;

Responds by fully integrating knowledge about (historical) trauma into policies, procedures, and practices;

Seeks to actively resist re-traumatization

Indigenous
4 R's

Respect

Responsibility

Reciprocity

Relevance/Reverence

Indigenous World Views

- How the universe was created
- How humans, creatures and other living beings were created
- The ability of humans and other beings of this world and beyond to communicate
- Source of personal power-strength-and motivation
- Balance of power – energy – blessings
- Gender and Age
- Life and Death

Spirituality

- A belief in an interdependent universe that relies on maintenance of harmony, balance, and respect for all things
- Medicine as protection vs. medicine as cure
- Ceremonies for wellbeing and renewal of the universe
- Natural healers and remedies

What you might see or hear

- Smudging
- Medicine pouches
- Eagle feathers
- Use of herbal medicines
- Songs & prayers
- A steady stream of visitors
- Tattoos

Socio-economic Context

- Frontier, rural, and isolated communities
- Urban communities
- Economically depressed communities with a lack of choice in amenities
- Economically thriving communities
- A culturally distinct majority
- Diverse languages and accents
- Gestures, and perhaps dress styles

Professional Norms

- The meeting begins when the key personnel have arrived – the clock doesn't rule, people do.
- Elders are revered and respected.
- Business is conducted through a mix of languages – English and the Native language.
- Kids and family members might be present or come and go throughout the meeting.

Types of Relationship

Inform

- Share information

Involve

- Allow participation in the planning & implementation of programs & activities

Little "c" consult

- Seek informal input to inform practice

Collaborate

- Work together to design, plan, organize, & implement programs & activities

Big "C" Consult

- Formal government-to-government meetings to build relationship and inform policy & practice

Tribal Sovereignty, Self-determination

- Tribes have decision-making power to drive the purpose, direction, & implementation

Government-to-Government Relations

- Under the American legal system, Tribal Nations have sovereign powers separate and independent from the federal and state governments.
- The extent and breadth of tribal sovereignty is not the same for each tribe.
- The Big “C”
