Setting the Stage: Applying a Trauma Lens

9

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

What Characterizes Trauma?

- Harmful event or series of events
- Lack of actual or perceived control in the harmful situation
- Violation of trust and safety
- Disruption in the social contract

10

---

---

---

---

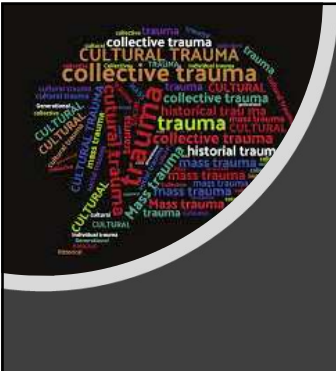

---

---

---

---

Collective Trauma

- Refers to the psychological reactions to a traumatic event that affect an entire society
- The tragedy is represented in the collective memory of the group, which includes both a reproduction of the event, but also an ongoing reconstruction of the trauma in an attempt to make sense of it.

Hirschberger, 2018

11

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Syndemic Trauma

- A syndemic refers to two or more health problems that coexist at the same time or concurrently
- A syndemic trauma refers to two major traumatic events that occur at the same time
- Scholars have argued that we are currently experiencing a syndemic trauma – the co-occurrence of the COVID-19 pandemic and grappling with racial justice issues (Powell, 2020)

12

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Trauma and the Current Workforce

Our collective experiences of COVID-19 has created a collective trauma

COVID, along with many of the racial justice issues impacting our staff, has created a culture of syndemic trauma

In addition, staff often bring their own current or past experiences of trauma into the workplace

Traumatic Stress Response Cycle

The diagram illustrates the cycle: a blue starburst labeled 'Traumatic Event' points to a red alarm bell labeled 'The Body's Alarm System'. An arrow labeled 'Stress Hormones' points from the alarm system to a cartoon character looking stressed, labeled 'Traumatic Stress'.

14

Why is this Important?

- When individuals are in a "reactive" mode, they are activating the "fight, flight, or freeze" parts of their brain, or the emotional centers:
  - Those in "flight" might be calling out more often, increased absences, leave for another job
  - Those in "fight" mode might be disagreeing with every decision, pushing back on everything
  - Those in "freeze" mode might be "checked out" and not engaged, just trying to survive
- When they can step back and reflect, it activates the "cognitive" part of their brain, or the frontal lobe, creating opportunities for more innovation and problem-solving

15

What is Trauma-Informed Care?

Trauma-informed care seeks to:

- Realize the widespread impact of trauma and understand paths for recovery;
- Recognize the signs and symptoms of trauma in patients, families, and staff;
- Integrate knowledge about trauma into policies, procedures, and practices; and
- Actively avoid re-traumatization.

Collaboration and Mutuality	Empowerment, Voice, and Choice	Cultural, Historical, and Gender Issues

17

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

What Does it Mean to be a Trauma-Informed Leader?

A trauma-informed leader is an individual who integrates the key principles of trauma-informed care into their leadership style

Involves effectively balancing compassion and accountability

18

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

A Trauma-Informed Leader...

- Creates physically and psychologically safe teams and environments
- Builds trust between and among team members
- Facilitates multiple opportunities for connection
- Identifies clear boundaries and expectations while also supporting staff autonomy, voice, and choice
- Engages in the “tough” conversations when needed
- Has a space to be vulnerable and take care of themselves

19

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

The Four Pillars of Trauma-Informed Leadership™

- Safety
- Trust
- Autonomy
- Connection and Relationships

20

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

The Role of Safety in Trauma and Trauma-Informed Leadership

- A traumatic experience is characterized by a profound lack of both physical and emotional safety
- An individual who has experienced chronic and complex trauma, may have difficulty distinguishing between safe and unsafe situations
- Following a traumatic event, a person may feel unsafe even when they are physically safe
- This can lead to them re-experiencing the event with the physiological responses
- A trauma-informed leader actively works on creating a physically and psychologically safe work environment

21

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

The Role of Trust in Trauma and Trauma-Informed Leadership

- Trauma can profoundly impact an individual's ability to trust in the world to be safe
- Some types of interpersonal trauma occur when the individual a child is supposed to trust the most (e.g., a parent) is the person who hurts them
- This can severely impair an individual's ability to trust in others over time
- A trauma-informed leader actively creates an environment of trust and transparency

22

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

The Role of Autonomy in Trauma and Trauma-Informed Leadership

- Autonomy refers to an individual's ability and right to make decisions and have voice, choice, and control over their own lives
- A hallmark of a traumatic event is that an individual or group's autonomy has been taken by them through physical or emotional coercion
- An individual who has experienced trauma often spends much of their energy trying to regain control
- A trauma-informed leader actively works on identifying ways in which staff can meet business requirements while also retaining a sense of autonomy and control

23

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

The Role of Connections and Relationships in Trauma and Trauma-Informed Leadership

- Some of the most complicated and challenging types of trauma occur within the context of our connections and relationships
- This type of trauma is called complex trauma
- Complex trauma can have a profound impact on how we see the world and relate to others around us
- The best way to heal complex trauma is within the context of relationships
- A trauma-informed leader actively works on creating opportunities for connections and relationships within their team and organization

24

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

The Role of Self in Trauma-Informed Leadership

- To become a trauma-informed leader, we must integrate the Four Pillars of Trauma-Informed Leadership into our leadership orientation
- These require each of us to dig deep and identify the areas in which we are strong and the areas in which we might struggle personally as a leader.
- There are two activities that we will do together today to assist in this process:
  - Emotional Self-Assessment
  - Develop a Personal Leadership Commitment Statement

25

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

TIL Emotional Self-Assessment

- Developing your leadership story
- DREAD Journal Activity

26

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Sharing Your Leadership Story

You will be divided into pairs and will go into breakout rooms to discuss the following questions:

- Introduce yourself by sharing your name and agency
- Take about 10 minutes each to share your personal leadership story. Answer the following questions for each other:
  - How did you become the leader you are today?
  - What was your first opportunity as a leader?
  - How did your various roles come together to inform who you are as a leader now?
  - What have you learned from your previous leader? What qualities inspired you? What qualities did you find challenging or harmful?
  - What do you love most about being a leader? What would you do all day if you could?
  - What do you dislike/dread about being a leader?
- Identify similarities and differences between the two stories and come prepared to share general themes back with the group.

27

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

28

---

---

---

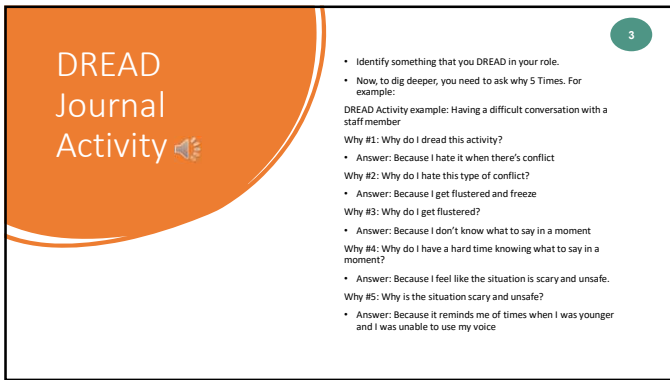

---

---

---

---

---

29

---

---

---

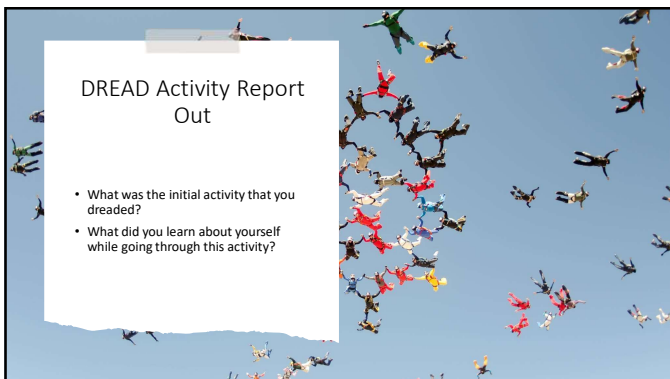

---

---

---

---

---

30

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Creating a Personal Leadership Commitment Statement 4

-  This should be based on what you uncovered from your self-assessment process
-  This statement should include specific commitments that you make to address the part of leadership that you currently find most challenging.

31

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Leadership Commitment - Example

As a leader, I am committed to engaging in trauma-informed leadership by acknowledging my biases, continuously assessing the areas in which I'm challenged in this work and leaning into difficult situations to create spaces characterized by safety, connectedness, vulnerability, and belonging. I will lean in during the moments I find most challenging because I understand that these moments are critical for creating the type of work environment that I am aspiring to create.

32

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Conclusion

- Would anyone be willing to share their personal leadership commitment statement?
- Next month, we will work on identifying concrete strategies to assist in building safety, trust, and boundaries in your teams.
